The Queen's Drawing Room.

Society is interesting limit a good deal about the drawing room walch is to be held by the Queen on Tuesday. It is probable it will not be a very gay drawing room. The royal family and members of the court will wear mourning. The upper set will probably do the same out of respect for the court, and the announcement that the general public can wear what it pleases is calculated to make the general public get wourning gowns with all convenient speed in order that it may be mistaken as regards the description of its dress for something other than what it is. A number of Americans are to be present d, among them Mrs. Geo. B. McClellan and her daughter. These la-dies will be disappointed to learn that they will only meet her Majesty by proxy, as af-ter the first few guests, Ambassadors' wives, and so forth have been received, the Queen will go away and leave the Princess of Wales to be bowed to by the long list of women, who will remain for hours shivering in their carriages or penned up like she p in the autorooms. The new Duchess of Mathorough is to be presented, according to present articles. rangements. It will be interesting to note if a certain bit of gossip which is going about will be justified. The Duke of Marlborough's divorced wife is going to be pres-ent at the same drawing room, and the statement is that, while the Queen could not do otherwise than receive the American Duchess, who is not to blame for her hus band's shortcomings, she nevertheless in-tends to show her sympathy for the died wife and her dislike for the wicked Duke, in a little way of her own, by receiving the divorced wife in person most graciously, and going away just before the American Duchees arrives.

The royal proclamation by which women the royal proclamation by which women were to be allowed, under certain circumstances, to wear their court dresses higher than usual, will not make any special change in the appearance of the crowd. The fact that this order was made by the Queen out of consideration for those who have in weak health or adverging years will are in weak health or advancing years will tend, if anything, to make dresses lower than before .- London cor. N. Y. Sun.

THE MILLIONAIRES OF THE SENATE .- ! saw a man add up to day the fortunes of the members of the next Senate. Of course, no other earthly thing is as hard to find out as how rich a rich man is. He himself very seldom knows and the human imagination is weak indeed when it contemplates a big aggregation of dollars. Most of the people of this country cannot understand the sensation of owning $1,000,000 in a It used to be a common saying that A. T. Stewart was worth a hundred millions, but I believe his estate, after death, amounted only to $30,000,000. There is a member of Congress from Massachusetts whose close friends range from $4 000,000 to $250,000 in estimating his wealth. But on the basis of popular guesses the figures of Senatorial wealth that I saw to day footed up $139,-000,000. According to this calculation there will be, counting Vice-President Morton, nineteen millionaires in the next Senate. which number is a third of the total mem bership. When Zachariah Chandler came to the Senate, just before the war, I have heard that he could not find another millionaire in the chamber. Only fourteen years ago there were but nine millionaires in the Senate. - Washington Letter.

BIRD-NEST Soup .- These bird-nests are composed of little fish and seaweed which the Chinese swallows take from the ocean in the spring of the year and with which they line their nests. These fish are only found in one place in China-somewhere north of Pekin. The Chinese regard the soup made from the nests a very rare and excellent dish, its chief recommendation being a supposed beneficial effect on the stomach. The following is an authenticated recipe given by a Chinese cook: "Take six bird-nests; soak over night in cold water In the morning wash clean in fresh water, then steam six hours. After steaming take up and pick out all feathers, keeping the juice for the soup. The stock of the soup is made of chicken and veal. In it are put a few pigeon eggs—the seasoning being left to the cook's judgment." This will serve twelve persons.

Souffle.-Three eggs, yolks and whites well beaten separately; one tablespoonful of corn starch, two tablespoonfuls of flour and milk enough to make a batter; a pinch of salt. This bake in a quick oven for fifteen minutes, and eat as soon as baked, with a
